

DAIKIN PERFORMS AN "EXTREME" VRV-S INSTALLATION!

Daikin AC recently donated a VRV-S system to a deserving family selected to receive a newly constructed home featured on the reality television show, "Extreme Makeover, Home Edition."

Ed Guthrie, Branch Manager of the Northeast Region, learned about the

The Hill family of Geneva, New York re-opportunity in Geneva, New York from contractors, TAG Mechanical, just a few weeks before the installation. Ed, his team and Tom Pivovar, Daikin's North American Field Service Manager helped secure and install the products for the Hill family.

"Daikin AC is proud to be a part of such a generous effort," explained Christina Trondsen, DACA's Director of Marketing. "We believe the deserving family will enjoy the absolute comfort as well as the lower costs associated with operating Daikin's energy efficient products."

The new home was built using sustainable products, including Daikin's energy efficient heating and cooling systems. In fact, the project will aim for a LEED Gold certification.

"The Daikin equipment is as efficient as a geothermal heat pump system but with better temperature and dehumidification control capability," explained Ellis Guiles, director of sales and marketing, TAG Mechanical. "Daikin was an excellent choice for the project because it has excellent zoning capabilities and it is also less expensive to install than a geothermal system," explained Guiles. "The ease of installation and flexibility of the product was also essential because the 3500 square foot home was built in just over 100 hours."

Each episode of Extreme Makeover; Home Edition features a race against time involving a team of designers, contractors, and several hundred volunteers who have seven days to rebuild an entire house.

Tom Pivovar helps with the installation of Daikin's donated VRV-S system.

The Hill family was selected to receive a new home, enabling them to keep and improve their boxing gym for underprivileged teens.

The FXSQ Concealed Ceiling Unit being installed in the Hill's new home.

For over 10 years, Tim Hill has been training kids from the ages of 8 to 21 to box for free, and he pays all expenses out of his pocket. Many of the kids are from broken and impoverished homes and Tim gives them a sense of pride and expert training that has made 3 Olympic hopefuls. The episode aired November 2, 2008 .